Jerry Phelps Post 237 Commander Commander's Corner

Greetings Legionnaires, American Legion Auxiliary, Sons of the American Legion and American Legion Riders.

Post elections were held on May 20th. All officers of the Executive Committee were re-elected to their current positions with the exception of the 1st Vice Commander and the 3 Year Trustee. The new 1st Vice Commander will be Rob Satterwhite and the new 3 Year Trustee will be Brad Mayo. Please join me in welcoming these gentlemen to their new roles at the Post. The installation of officers will be held during the membership meeting on June 17th.

Auxiliary Unit 237 Vice President, Tanya Phelps, and I were honored to be able to present the Memorial Day Wreath at the Veterans Memorial Park in downtown Huntsville on Memorial Day.

The Honor Guard has finally received their new van which will enable them to continue their mission of providing dignified funeral services for veterans. Post members at the membership meeting last month voted to donate our old van to Post 114 in Arab to help them as they start up the Honor Guard at their Post. →

Their commander and membership were shocked and they graciously accepted our donation.

Finally, I hope everyone has a safe and happy summer!

Jerry Phelps, Post 237 Commander

Veterans Service Resource Day Open House

On Saturday 27 April, 2024, American Legion Post 237 hosted the first ever Veterans Service Resource Day Open House. By all measures, we had a highly successful service event for our Veterans. I took the opportunity to thank all veteran, vendor, organization and attendee; ensuring that they left with answers and appointments for their benefit issues. I heard only positive comments from each person.

Thank you to everyone for giving a piece of your life by your work, dedication and cooperation. I believe that Post 237 was successfully showcased and most importantly provided much needed assistance to our sisters, brothers and their families.

I look forward to next year's Open House. It is an honor and a privilege to work alongside such a fantastic, talented group of leaders. Have a wonderful summer, or if you're like me counting the days until the thermometer sinks below 80. Stay cool.

UNDERSTANDING PTSD AND PTSD TREATMENT

What is PTSD?

PTSD (Post traumatic stress disorder) is a mental health problem developed after experiencing or witnessing a life-threatening event like combat, a natural disaster, a car accident, or sexual assault. It's normal to have upsetting memories, feel on edge, or have trouble sleeping after these types of events. At first, it may be hard to do normal daily activities, like going to work, going to school, or spending time with people you care about. If it's been longer than a month and you're still having symptoms, you may have PTSD. For some people, PTSD symptoms may start later on, or they may come and go over time.

"You're not alone. There's others out there that are going through and have gone through the same types of things that you are going through now. There are people out there that understand." -----Lee Norris -US Air Force (1993-2010)

What Can Cause PTSD?

- Combat and other military experiences
- Sexual or physical assault
- Learning about the violent or accidental death or injury of a loved one
- Child sexual or physical abuse
- Serious accidents, like a car wreck
- Natural disasters, like a fire, tornado, hurricane, flood or earthquake
- Terrorist attacks

Trauma Can Take Many Forms

A traumatic event could be something that happened to you, or something you saw happen to someone else. Seeing the effects of a horrible or violent event can also be traumatic---for example, being a first responder after a terrorist attack.

You're Not Alone

Going through a traumatic event is not rare. At least half of Americans have had a traumatic event in their lives. About 6 out of every 100 people (or 6% of the U.S. population) will have PTSD at some point in their lives. There are some things that make it more likely you'll develop PTSD—for example, having very intense or long-lasting trauma, getting hurt, or having a strong reaction to the event (like shaking, throwing up, or feeling distant from your surroundings).

"I was awarded a Silver Star for bravery. You're not going to tell me I'm a coward. If somebody like me has PTSD, then anybody can have it."-----Major Joshua Brandon-U.S. Army (2002-present)

What Are The Symptoms of PTSD?

1. Reliving the event: Unwelcome memories about the trauma can come up at any time. They can feel very real and scary, as if the event is happening again. This is called a flashback. You may also have nightmares. Memories of the trauma can happen because of a trigger ---- something that reminds you of the event. For example, seeing a news report about a disaster may trigger someone who lived through a hurricane. Or hearing a car backfire might bring back memories of gunfire for a combat veteran.

2. Avoiding things that remind you of the event: You may try to avoid certain people or situations that remind you of the event. For example, someone who was assaulted on a bus might avoid taking public transportation. Or a combat veteran may avoid crowded places like shopping malls because it feels dangerous to be around so many people.

3. Having more negative thoughts and feelings than before: You may feel more negative than you did before the trauma. You might be sad or numb and lose interest in things you used to enjoy, like spending time with friends. You may feel that the world is dangerous and you can't trust anyone. It may be hard for you to feel or express happiness, or other positive emotions.

4. Feeling on edge: It's common to feel jittery or "keyed up" ---like it's hard to relax. This is called hyperarousal. You might have trouble sleeping or concentrating, or feel like you're always on the lookout for danger. You may suddenly get angry and irritable --- and if someone surprises you, you might startle easily.

"The emotional numbness will just tear away all of the relationships, you know, if you don't learn to unlock them and get those emotions out"-----(Sarah C. Humphries-U.S. Army (1994-2012))

How Do I Know if I Have PTSD?

The only way to know for sure is to talk to a mental health care provider. They will ask you about your trauma, your symptoms, and any other problems you have. If you think you might have PTSD, answer the questions below after reading the following:

Sometimes things happen to people that are unusually or especially frightening, horrible, or traumatic. For example, a serious accident or fire, a physical or sexual assault or abuse, an earthquake or flood, a war, seeing someone be killed or seriously injured or having a loved one die through homicide or suicide.

- Have you experienced any of these kinds of events? ____ Yes ____ No
- If yes, please answer the questions below. In the past month, have you:

1. Had nightmares about the event(s) or thought about the event(s) when you didn't want to?
2. Tried hard not to think about the event(s) or went out of your way to avoid situations that reminded you of the event(s)?
3. Been constantly on guard, watchful, or easily startled?
4. Felt numb or detached from people, activities, or your surroundings?
5. Felt guilty or unable to stop blaming yourself or others for the event(s) or any problems the event(s) may have caused?

If you answered "yes" to 3 or more of these questions, talk to a mental health care provider to learn more about PTSD and PTSD treatment. Answering "yes" to 3 or more questions does not mean you have PTSD. Only a mental health care provider can tell you for sure.

What Do I Do If I Have Symptoms of PTSD?

After a traumatic event, it's normal to think, act, and feel differently than usual --- but most people start to feel better after a few weeks or months. Talk to a doctor or mental health care provider (like a psychiatrist, psychologist, or social worker) if your symptoms:

- Last longer than a month
- Are very upsetting
- Disrupt your daily life

Treatment can help ___you CAN get better

What Other Problems Do People with PTSD Have?

Many people who have PTSD also oftentimes have another mental health problem like depression, anxiety, alcohol and drug abuse, or thinking about harming themselves or others. It’s also common to have problems at work, in relationships, or with your physical health.

“I have kicked my alcohol. I kicked my drugs. And this is all from the treatment I have been given from the PTSD clinic.”-----(Craig “Stu” Shipley-U.S. Marine Corps (1964-1968)

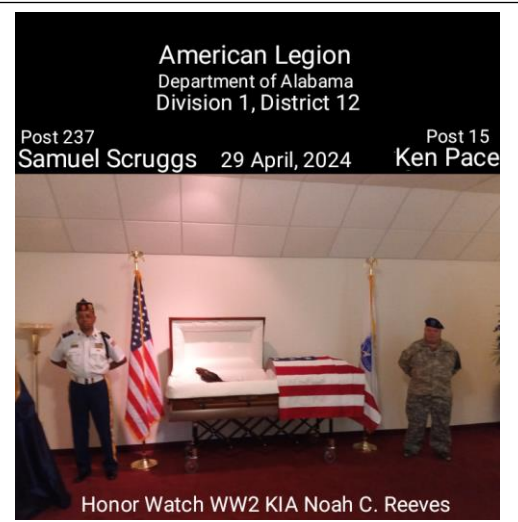

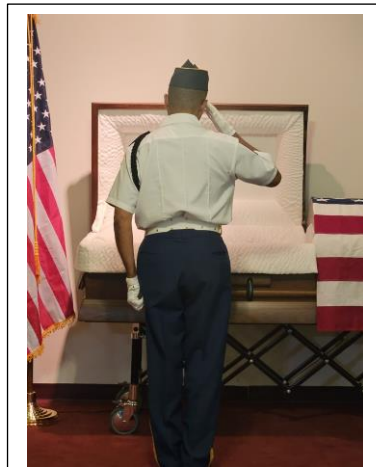

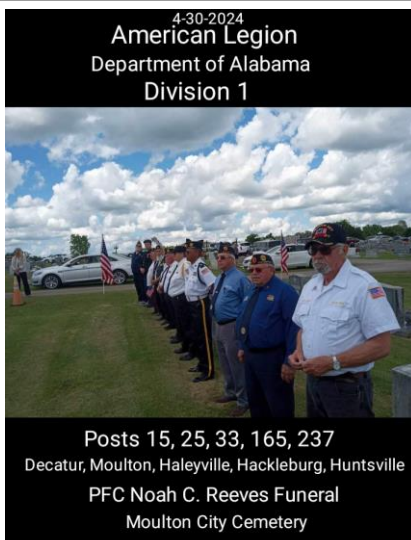

A continuation of this very important discussion about PTSD will be included in next month’s Post 237 Roll Call newsletter. If anything you read in this article applies or may apply to you, I strongly encourage you to seek help. You are important to yourself, family and friends.

HUMOR IN UNIFORM

HOW NOT TO RAISE CHICKENS

A retired US Marine moved to the country and bought a home on two acres of land. He thought hard about what he wanted to do to make some money to go along with his retired Marine pay. He went to the local feed and livestock store and talked to the owner of the store saying that he wanted to take up chicken farming. The Marine asked to buy 100 chicks. "That's a lot of chicks," commented the store owner. "I mean business," said the Marine. Two weeks later the Marine came back to the store again. "I need another 100 chicks," he said. "Boy, you are serious about this chicken farming," the store owner told the Marine. "Yeah," the Marine replied. "I need to iron out a few problems." "Problems?" asked the store owner. "Yeah," replied the Marine, "I think I planted the last batch too close together."

2024 Alabama Boys State

Boys State is a unique summer program designed to train our youth in the ideals and objectives of American government through hands on experience and participation in a model state government. Along with the educational, leadership, and social benefits that Boys State offers, there is a long list of college scholarships available to participants.

Male students enrolled in high school or home school are eligible at the conclusion of their junior year. Students must have the approval of their school administration.

The 2024 Alabama Boys State Convention was held at Troy University, Troy, Alabama, May 26 through June 1, 2024. The Madison County Boys State Orientation was held at the Post 237 Annex on May 16th. Yancy Mitchell, Dean of Boys State Counselors, Thomas Fleming, Governor, Landon Bruski, Lt. Governor, and Matthew Heiliger from the 2023 Boys State class provided commentary on how to prepare for the convention. We appreciate the efforts of the following volunteers who assisted with the orientation: Jerry, and Billy Phelps, Christie, Kim, Thad, Erin and Jacob Paone, Alyse Sena, George Nobles, William Sundquest, and Brad Mayo,

This year Post 237 sponsored 5 Madison County students in need of financial assistance. We also provided round trip bus transportation for delegates to and from the Boys State Convention. Legionnaire Gordon Benton assisted us by obtaining a cost-effective option for bus transportation from his employer, First Student, this year.
